

Trópos

Rivista di ermeneutica e critica filosofica

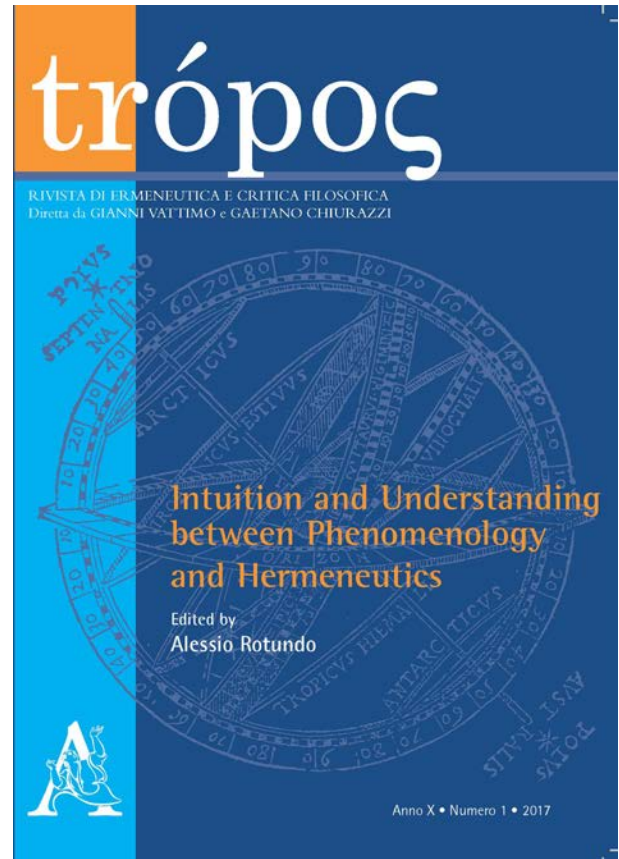

Ed. by Gianni Vattimo and Gaetano Chiurazzi

Trópos – Anno X, n. 1 (2017)

Intuition and Understanding between Phenomenology and Hermeneutics

Ed. by Alessio Rotundo

The dialogue between the traditions of phenomenology and hermeneutic philosophy represents a crucial point of reference in the philosophical landscape of the 20th century as regards problems of knowledge, reality, and experience. If for phenomenology the clarification of the manifold modes of human experience and awareness of reality finds a line of focus in the elaboration of the notion of “intuition,” hermeneutic philosophy centers on the priority of “understanding” as primary mode of access to the world. The present issue of Trópos explores the themes of “intuition” and “understanding” within the conceptual framework opened up by the two influential philosophical traditions of the last century.

Introduction. Variations of Intuition and Understanding

Alessio Rotundo

Intuition and Understanding between Phenomenology and Hermeneutics

E. Sonderegger, Nichtempirische Begründungen von Wissen und Verstehen • M. Soboleva, Plato, Hermeneutics, and Knowledge • Jan-Ivar Lindén, Apperception and Experience. Some Ontological Perspectives • Justin L. Harmon, Interpretation from the Ground Up. Luigi Pareyson's Hermeneutics of Inexhaustibility and its Implications for Moral Ontology • W. Clark Wolf, Analogy as a Mode of Intuitive Understanding in Ricoeur • M.A.C. Jennings, De-fusing the Horizons? Content Analysis and Hermeneutics • Emmanuel Alloa, “Laddove c'è prova, non c'è testimonianza”. Le aporie del testimone secondo Jacques Derrida • Alessio Rotundo, The Cogito in Nature and History. Phenomenological and Hermeneutical Aspects

Saggi

Apaar Kumar, Hermeneutics from the Margins. Provisional Notes • Àlex Mumbrú Mora, The Ontologization of the Concept of Symbol in H.-G. Gadamer's Hermeneutics • Giovanni Tidona, Gioco e Unbekümmertheit. Una logica semantica di costituzione dell'oggetto

Open access: <http://www.aracneeditrice.it/aracneweb/index.php/rivista.html?col=tr%C3%B3pos> <https://troposonline.org>

e-mail: tropos.filosofia@unito.it